Sir,

I regret to report that while Adams Express Co. was discharging the boxes of Silver this morning from their car, one of their men needlessly ran one of our trucks, which they were using to discharge the silver, against a carboy of our Parting acid, and broke it, so that all the parting acid escaped. The value of the acid is $136 \text{ lbs} \times 94 = \12.24 and of the carboy $1.50, making a total of $13.74 destroyed.

This coin of which I give the inscriptions on both sides viz 1 and 2

1  may be the coin bearing the legend Urbs Roma. VRBS is plainly shown but on the other edge is

2  worn off. This is all that remains of any letters that were there ^{also the head of a soldier}

On the other side is a wolf and the two trees spoken of in Roman History also what was probably meant for 2 stars and between them ^{what} I would suppose ^{was} a

4  wreath those are all stamped over the wolf

3 & 4 Both coin outside is the head of a female and letters not plain to decipher but nearly similar to what I have marked aside of No 3. on the other side is probably a female like holding a long staff in her hand and the letters BI then are plain the next one may be C or G and next like it the female maybe holding some grand evening instrument in one hand and a sprinkling pot in other or brush of some kind.

I tried to make an impression in this manner but it is not very plain

Full name, including your own, of all officers and employes attached to your district, port, or office September 1, next, arranged, according to degree of importance, alphabetically in each grade; their designation, which should not be fully descriptive of their duties, but simply the primary office they hold, as Deputy Collector, Clerk, Inspector, &c., but where two or more offices are combined and held by one person, all should be stated; the port or station where serving; place of birth, that is, State or country only; date of original appointment in the branch of service in which serving September 1, 1875; and compensation, annual or per diem, according to appointment, but never both.

Sir:

Of the five men nominated on the 28th, ult. for the Refinery etc, only four have answered. I have now worked five days in refining the Unparted Bullion of Nevada, and with this experience before me I find that the number of eight men, which I originally thought would be required, will be the least number with which I can do the work now called for by the Government.

I therefore nominate Walter S. Heins at $3⁰⁰ pr. day, for the beginning, as a Helper in the Refinery.

At this moment I cannot name others until I shall have made more minute enquiries concerning them.

I must draw attention to one point named in my letter of 28th ult, viz; that one man at least must remain every day to attend to the operations going on in the Refinery until the watchmen come in the evening, say 6 o'clock.

I shall nominate one person for this position, although it would be far preferable for one of our men to stay during the two extra hours, alternately or successively each day, with extra compensation.

The cost of the last arrangement would be one fourth that of an extra hand.

Sir

In reply to the query of the Acting Director, in what time we can part the 283 Pigs (of about $ 800,000.) now on hand, I beg to state that I propose and design having the whole lot parted before the middle of September.

This time was calculated beforehand, and allows a large margin to meet possibly, although unforeseen, contingencies so as to gain experience in daily continuous parting.

We could not commence until yesterday, and the experience of a day and a half shows that the time of parting is likely to fall within the time named. If the Director will but allow one week from this date, I can fix our capacity to refine with exactness of time, the principal limitation now foreseen being the human force required to handle the metal and materials for refining,

My Dear Governor

I don't want you to think I am perpetually boring you about the Annual Reports &c, because really you have sent the most of them. Before the Doctor left, I promised him, that he would have nothing to do on his return, in connection with his Report, but the written matter. I have nearly all the Tables Completed, and can wait for the Cornage and other statements a while longer.

The Director writes me, that they have sunk an artesian well at San Francisco, which flows about 700 gallons per hour. You remember, probably, the exorbitant charges of the Water Company in that City.

Received 2 Aug 1875.

In your Medal Statement, I notice
You have said nothing about the Metis dies. The Doctor gave me instructions before he left, when the dies were completed, you would inform me, so that I could consult with the Secretary, and also that you would forward the ~~medals~~ medals to this office. When do you think

I can inform the Hon. Moses W.
Field of the completion of the Horn Medal? As I told you, when I was on, he wants two or three weeks to prepare for the public presentation.

Your Requisition
will go to the Warrant Room

One of them, a counterfeit 5 cent piece, was found to contain 24.9 per cent. of nickel; very near to the legal proportion, 25.

The other, a planchet, contained 24.1 per cent. of nickel. - This was near enough to standard, but it gives evidence that the two pieces were not from the same melt, though they might have been of the same manufacture. ^{The alloy in} both cases was copper.) Respectfully yours

~~CHIEF~~ COINER'S DEPARTMENT.

Philadelphia, August 24th 1875.

Hon. James Pollock,
Superintendent.

Sir;

Having reported to you my suspicions as to the honesty of George Mitchell, employed in the Coining Room of this Department, and having received from you before your departure to the country, authority to suspend him in case my suspicions were confirmed, or strengthened, I have the honor to submit the following facts in relation to the further developement of the case.

On the morning after our conference, I was satisfied from the evidence presented to me that Mitchell had taken some of the one cent coin, and had them on his person, but being anxious to fix his guilt clearly, beyond any cavil or doubt, I instructed Mr. Downing the Foreman of the room, to mark the reverse die to be used on Monday, so that pieces struck from the die, could be easily distinguished from other coins of the same denomination. I also instructed him not to use more than one Coining press, so that Mitchell's actions could be the more closely watched, and that he should report to me any suspicious actions on Mitchell's part.

At about eleven A.M. Mr. Downing reported that Mitchell had been acting in a suspicious manner, and that in his judgment he then had some of the marked coin on his person.

In your absence, I sent for Mr. Hickok, Acting Superintendent, and informed him of all the facts, and requested him to remain with me, whilst I sent for and examined Mr. Mitchell, which he did.

I sent for Mitchell, and after closing the door, to prevent our being disturbed, I told him that some of the employees suspected him of taking coin out of the Coining Room. He was a little agitated, but laughingly told me it was a great mistake.

I then asked him whether he had any coin on his person - he said he had some which had been given him by his son.

I then told him that any coin given by his son could be designated, as the coin of today had been struck upon a marked die - He immediately became very much distressed, and wanted a private interview. I went with him into the vault connected with my room, and he there confessed that he had recently taken a few cents, and begged me to overlook the offence. I told him how much distressed I was to see an old man of his long connection with the Mint, detected in such a crime - that I sincerely sympathized with his family and himself, but that I could not overlook the offense, which was known to several of the employees as well as to you, the Superintendent.

I then took him back to the presence of Mr. Hickok, where he again confessed his fault. I then exhibited to Mr. Hickok two (2) pieces from the dies, given me by Mr. Downing, and asked Mitchell to take out of his pocket the coin he had pilfered - After some trouble he was made to empty his pockets, and we found upon him thirty-three (33) Cents marked in a similar manner to the ones previously in my possession. These pieces were sealed up in our presence, with a proper endorsement. Mr. Downing was requested to put up a number from the same press in an envelope and seal the same - which he did.

These packages are now in my vault - subject to your examination. I immediately suspended him. Mr. Mitchell tendered his resignation which has been sent to your office for such action as you may see fit.

Mr. Mitchell has been connected with this Institution almost continuously for over fifty (50) years - he is now a very old man, being upwards of seventy six (76) years of age. Of late he has manifested in many ways the weakness of his mind and I think it is but charity to say that his grave fault can be attributed to mental decay and weakness, more than to any other cause.

His feeble-mindedness has manifested itself in a marked manner since his recent detection in peculations.

At one moment he appears in the very depths of despair and humiliation - denouncing himself for the crime that has disgraced himself and his family - and the very next speaks of himself as a "poor victim of uncharitable people -"

I have felt it my duty to present the whole facts, for such action as you may deem proper.

I will add that from present appearances I do not think that Mitchell will long survive this terrible blow -

His mental suffering I will not attempt to describe - one cannot witness it unmoved -

I am Very Respectfully
Your Obedt. Servant

Sir.

As you are aware we are using 2 or 3 furnaces for melting silver in the Northern half of the Copper-melting room. The stone floor in the room is some 25 or 30 years old, (most of it at least) & is moreover of inferior character in hardness & and toughness, & full of scales of mica. It is full of cracks, & ~~so~~ rough that we cannot put down our iron-grating on it so as to lie smoothly. Because of its bad character & especially on account of the escape of silver grains in the cracks, I ask that the one half of the Copper room floor, where we melt & cast silver, be tiled with North River Flags, which combine the requisites of hardness, toughness, & freedom from flaws..

I have ascertained from our Mason
Brooke that we obtain them @ say 34 or 36 ¢ pr. square foot. There being about 360 sq. ft. in the place
I have named, it would cost below $125= for the whole. There are some other places where our flag pavement is much shattered & might be much improved by replacing broken stones by good slabs.

I can make him very useful in transacting the minor business of the Cashier's room, or such of it as relates to the operation Department and heavy shipments of coin. But he will prove still more useful, and very necessary during the Centennial year, as a conductor as well as an interpreter. I believe him to be a frank honorable and honest man, qualities which constitute the highest recommendation to favor in an institution like this.

Sir,

I find that I have force enough to melt at the rate of $9,000,000, of Silver per annum - or $6,000,000, Silver and many millions of Gold, -

Now, if the Department at Washington designs forwarding us Refined Silver for making Coin, at the rate of the last few months, while supplying us ~~at~~ the same time with Unparted Bullion as we have lately received it, - then an increase of force will be necessary in the refining operations. But if either one of these supplies is to be curtailed, after our present stock shall have been exhausted, then

I shall not need another man beyond the force now on hand, so that those just nominated will not be called for.

Would it not therefore be advisable for you to ask the Director to state how far we may look for a continued supply of Silver Bullion for Coinage, or of Unparted Bullion for Refining and Coinage;— in order that we may make arrangements with the greatest economy and efficiency of the Public Service.

I ask this now, because of the doubts expressed as to the continuity of supply of Silver and Gold for Refining and Coinage. Would it not be desirable to ascertain something certain, if the Department can furnish it, before appointing or informing the men recently nominated?

Sir,

Referring to your communication of yesterday in reply to my letter of the 7th inst. requesting you to deposit the balances of the Appropriations for the last fiscal year, I have to state that your Requisition for the current month is held by the ^{Act} Comptroller who declines to recommend the advance for the reason that the funds already in your hands are in excess of the amount of your Official Bond. The balance in your hands on June 30. 1875, was $56,901.⁸⁷, since which time there has been advanced you $61,400.-, making a total of $118,301.⁸⁷.

There are vouchers on hand
as follows, viz:

July Account	—	$24,940.53
August	—	31,661.03
		56,601.56

This leaves a balance in your hands of $61,700.³¹, being over $11,000.- more than the amount of your Bond. Of this balance $20,781.²⁰ is on account of Wages of Workmen for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1875, which, if deposited, would reduce your balance to $40,919.¹¹. We could probably have the amount advanced for Artesian Well deducted from this, which would leave $20,919.¹¹.

and enable you to secure funds for the present month.

With reference to the payment of the bills of Dr. Bonzano, you are probably aware that no expenses incurred during the current fiscal year can be paid from the Appropriations for the past year.

Sir

I respectfully report that I tested the clean water from the well recently bored at the U.S. Mint, with the following results:

The water contained 44.829 grains of Solid matter in the U.S. Gallon.

The solid matter consists chiefly of Sulphates & ~~Minerals~~ ^{Minerals}, with smaller quantities of the Carbonates, of Lime, Magnesia & Soda, with still less of Silica & Oxide of Iron.

Carbonate of Lime & of Magnesia are held in solution in the freshly drawn water by an excess of carbonic Acid, which escapes during the evaporation of the water, & produces a cloudiness in the remaining water. The slightly chalybeate taste of the water is due to the Carbonate of Magnesia in solution.

The quantity of mineral matter in the Mint water is about twice the amount contained in the Thames water, England. By exposure to the air in tanks or by boiling, the carbonates of lime & magnesia would be deposited.

Yours respectfully clear to test, & gave it into the hands of Dr. Thos. H. Garrett for this purpose. His report is herewith appended.

In consequence of the quantity of Chlorides in the water, I think that in the Refinery and the Assay Department it would be better to adhere to the use of the Schuyl-Kill water, which has much less of the Chlorides. Though the water might be employed, even in the Refinery, for every purpose, except that of diluting the Silver solutions resting over the fine Gold, yet for the present I would advise not bringing it into the Refinery, until suitable arrangements can be made for it.

Although the water contains the considerable amount of 44 grains solid matter to the gallon, and although there is a considerable amount of Sulphate of Lime in it, yet I incline to the opinion that it will not form hard Pan-stone in the boilers, because of the large content of Chlorides and of Carbonates of Lime, etc., which I think will tend to prevent an adhesive Pan-stone from forming, or if a Pan-stone form, will tend to render it easily removable.

We must further bear in mind that in cases like the Mint well, long continued pumping usually and progressively improves the quality of the water; because long repose or the slow motion of water through the strata has dissolved a quantity of Soluble Salts, the removal of which water by pumping will gradually introduce a fresher

In conclusion, then, the quantity of water obtained by the boring is amply sufficient for the Mint; and its quality is such that it may be used for all purposes, except for the chemical departments, which require, comparatively speaking, a very small part of the whole demand of the Mint.

Sir,

Needing Spelter for the reduction of Chloride of Silver, I wrote to the only three parties that could supply it by the wholesale, asking prices and samples of the metal. I received replies from each as follows:

From Mess. Trotter, for their Spelter (the best in the market) 11¢. — for Western $7\frac{1}{4}$ @ $7\frac{3}{8}$ ¢, with but little call for it, — it is very variable in quality.

From Spear & Richards, Phila, $9\frac{1}{2}$ ¢, of good quality.

From Manning & Squier (Passaic Zinc Co.) highest quality @ 10¢. equals Trotter's @ 11¢, I think; — an inferior @ 7¢ with appreciable percentages of tin & lead; — medium @ $8\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ with mere traces of lead & possibly of tin.

I recommend without hesitation the medium quality of Mess. Manning & Squire @ $8\frac{1}{2}\%$ as amply sufficient in quality for our use in refining the Western Silver.

Please find herewith another copy of my Report on Gold & Silver melting for July, which seems to have been accidentally mislaid; - also my Report on daily workings of Gold & Silver for August, which has been ready since the 3^d of Sept, but was overlooked in consequence of the constant and pressing demands on my time in the Refinery.

The Report is satisfactory except in two points, 1. The wastage on the Gold is too heavy, altho there are residues that will diminish it below the legal limit. 2. The number of melts condemned was too great, but I was not able to give the same amount of attention to the subject, as I desired, nor as I shall do as soon as the method of refining the Gold from the Nevada the Nevada silver shall have been improved. The difficulties in this Refining until a System is devised for it, and the risks attending any unknown paths in gold refining, have obliged me to give my almost undivided attention to the subject for the past month. I trust that the difficulties have been overcome.

CIRCULAR TO OFFICERS, AGENTS, AND EMPLOYÉS OF THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT RELATIVE TO THE USE OF INKS.

1875.

Department No. 127.

Secretary's Office.

Treasury Department,

Washington, September 16, 1875.

It having come to the notice of this Department that many of its officers and employés are in the habit of using volatile and unstable inks on official records, and in the preparation of official correspondence, a practice which must result in serious consequences to the public service by the fading out and destruction of important records:

It is therefore ordered, that no inks, or substitutes for inks, shall hereafter be used by officers or employés of this Department, except such as are furnished or authorized by the Department.

Blue ink must not be used in writing permanent records or letters intended for preservation.

All officers receiving their supplies of ink and mucilage from the Treasury Department, must order the same during the warm weather, so as to avoid freezing while in transit.

Sir:

I have your letter of yesterday submitting for my consideration bid of Joseph Wharton, for furnishing 5000 lbs Nickel @ $3.25 per lb. currency, for the pure nickel, to be determined by the Mint assay.

Before acting upon this bid I desire information on the following points

1st What quantity of Nickel is there now on hand at the Mint including the old Nickel Cents

2^d What amount of one cent bronze and 3 & 5 cent Nickel coins are there now in the Mint including those in in the Redemption Fund.

The Coinage of the 345 Cent pieces was suspended by direction of the Secretary of the Treasury three or four months ago, and cannot be resumed without his authority for so doing.

Under date of the 11th instant the Assistant Treasurer, at New York, advised the Secretary that $10,000 in 5 Cent Nickel pieces and $4,000 in one cent bronze pieces could readily be spared and transferred to the Mint. Would it not be well to have these coins transferred and reissued. Our policy is to allow the surplus minor coins accumulated at different points to be redistributed, and coin only such amounts as may be actually required to add to the accumulation.

referred to, and to meet such demands as may be made upon us.

Of course it will be well for the Mint to be provided with a reasonable quantity of Nickel to meet any increased demand for Minor Coins which may arise in the future.

Sir

The silver coinage at your Mint since the 1st of May, has not been as large as we were led to expect, from your letter of the 20th of April. Dr Bouzard whose written report has not yet been received, informs me that the difficulty respecting the preparation of ingots and which led to ^{an unnecessary delay of} ~~the~~ condemnation of ingot-metals has been overcome.

This being the case there will be no difficulty with ^a ~~the~~ full supply of bullion, in determining between this time and the meeting of Congress, the actual capacity of the Mint for coinage with the present force.

The two principal minting operations as you are aware are the bringing of crude bullion to standard, and its coinage. With standard bullion to operate upon, the coinage capacity of our Mints would appear to be ample for any demand likely to be made upon them; but the capacity for melting, refining, parting and ingot making appears to be insufficient.

With the view of obtaining full information on the points indicated, as well as to ascertain what measures if any can be adopted to increase the Silver Coinage at your Mint, I have instructed Messrs Davis & Eckfeldt of this Office, to call upon you, and together with yourself and the Operative Officers have a full conference and examination of the subject.

I would observe in this connection that the number of female employes, appears to be considerably in excess of the work to be performed, and that a reduction in the number appears to be called for.

Hon. James Pollock

Superintendent

Sir,

I have just received the Report of the Assayer on the Silver Ingot melts, made yesterday, and was much worried to observe seven (7) melts condemned as below standard. While I know he has acted according to the best of his judgment, yet as the worst granulation was ^{only} two-thirds of the legal variation ^{below standard}, I would recommend & even urge the passing of the 7 melts, for the following reasons:

1. The legal variations in ~~coin~~ the assay of coin are $\frac{3}{1000}$ above or below the standard 900. But in order to obtain that standard in coin, our experience, and the determinations of Dr R. E. Rogers by direct experiment, prove that the Ingots should have a standard $.898\frac{3}{4}$. Our practice in the Mint during the whole of the past year was to endeavor to make to make the Ingots $.898\frac{3}{4}$, and as a consequence our coin was precisely $.900$ at the last annual assay.

The obvious inference is that Ingots might legally vary $\frac{3}{1000}$ from that standard, so as to get coin within that variation from $.900$.

2. Of course we do not wish to approach too near the legal limits. The worst ingots in the present report are only $\frac{2}{1000}$ below the standard, and 4 of the melts are ~~are~~ only $\frac{1\frac{1}{2}}{1000}$, & even less, below the ~~legal~~ standard.

3. We have often passed Ingots at $.900$ and some even $.900\frac{1}{2}$ (above the proper standard), i.e. $\frac{1\frac{1}{4}}{1000}$ @ $\frac{1\frac{3}{4}}{1000}$, & in a few cases, if memory be correct, at $\frac{2}{1000}$ above. Why should we not then sometimes pass Ingots at the same distance below the standard, thereby averaging the true standard?

4. The condemned melts were exclusively clippings, coming from Ingots, which had passed the Assayer as about the true standard, and their descent so low is quite unexpected, & beyond explanation, or we would have provided against it by previously adding fine silver. Having observed the descending ending scale of the melts for the week or more past, and finding that it ^{was} permanent & not temporary, I began yesterday to add 5 oz. of fine silver to each melt, & yet, in spite of this, many were lower than I like. Had I known, or could I have known, that the clippings were so low, I would have added 15 or 20 oz. fine silver, because my aim is always standard.

5. In the present rushing demand of the Govt for subsidiary silver, I think it would ^{be} desirable to pass these melts, & to supply forthwith Ingot melts of such quality above standard, as will balance these few below.

I would not urge even this course (for as you know I feel much interest in the reputation of the Mint for accuracy) if I were not straining every nerve to work the Mint up to its capacity, & satisfy what seems to be the urgent desire of the Government

Sir:

The Coinage Act of 1843, by fixing the tolerance on single pieces of silver coins, more than three times as great as upon the gold coins evidently contemplated the manufacture of the former without the adjustment of single pieces by hand.

It appears however, that the Coiners of the different Mints, are unwilling to make the coins without a weighing before stamping of each piece by the adjusters for fear a coin might be made slightly outside the legal limits of weight, and appear among those taken for the annual assay.

Not only the different Coiners but the expert workmen with whom I have conferred agree that while a single piece outside of the legal limits of weight might possibly result from relying altogether on the Draw Bench adjustment it would be very rare and probably not more likely to occur than from carelessness or want of skill in adjusting single pieces.

In order however that the intention of the law to have the subsidiary silver coin manufactured without the expense of weighing and adjusting of each individual piece may be carried out, authority is hereby given to take the assay pieces indiscriminately from those which the Superintendent has previously weighed in making the trial of the proposed delivery as provided in the Coinage Act.

The utmost care must be taken by the Carrier to insure the skillful working of the Draw Bench, and the Superintendent will in person or by a careful Assistant or Clerk representing him try separately such number of pieces in each delivery as shall leave no reasonable doubt that the coins of the proposed delivery are within the legal limits of the Standard weight.

It will be observed that there is a diminution both in wastage, and rejection of melts; but it is probable that the diminution of wastage towards the close of Sept. will be compensated by an increase in Oct., since the accounts somewhat interweave.

Hon. James P. Ballack,

Sir,

In conformity with your wish to receive my views on the subject of the use of the Old Copper cent in point of economy, & adaptability for compassing the Bronze metal in part, I respectfully reply.

1. That in the Coining Dept your suggestion led to an improvement in rolling the metal.
 2. That in my dept we have quite recently improved in melting the nickel & bronze alloys so as to roll the metal in strips of paper thinness (heavy paper or thin board) without annealing during rolling.
 3. That if the cent metal ^{had been} ~~were~~ sold, we would have been obliged to purchase other copper to make the base alloys, & at a considerable loss, in comparison with the difference in price between the two coppers.
- Unless we were to melt & sell the old cent copper, we cannot positively know what this difference would be, but we know that at the last sale of Old Cent Copper we sold it in August 1872 @ $30\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ pr. lb., and at the same time we purchased Copper for making the Bronze & Nickel alloy @ $33\frac{1}{2}$ ¢. making a loss of 3 ¢ pr. lb. At that time, altho' we tried to use the Old Cent, it was always reported that it would not roll, and hence the sale was advised. Now copper was very high at that time, & in such cases, inferior copper sells much better than when it is low. It is now quite low, for the very best brands & inferior copper, like our old cent metal, would sell @ more than 3 ¢ pr. lb. below the better. But if we take the 3 ¢ difference into account, the loss on melting the present stock of old cents into bars, and selling it would be about \$300.= if we are to continue making base alloys, because we would have to purchase good copper for these alloys. The \$2785.= of old cents on hand, ascertained by tate, has a weight of about 6684 lbs., or by throwing off 2% wear & tear $6550\frac{32}{100}$ lbs. Now we believe that we might estimate about 1% loss in melting & casting into bars, so that the actual weight is reduced to $6484\frac{82}{100}$ lbs ready for sale.

In explaining your action in reference to the coinage of metal-copper piece during September you assign as one of the reasons the short supply of silver bullion. That contingency would not have arisen had you advised this Office that more silver bullion was required to carry out its instructions. I understand that all the silver ingots, which were condemned in my report the day before yesterday, were handed over to be coined.

Three of the melts gave $896\frac{3}{4}$ fine, while the extreme limit of the law is 897.

The law really gives me no power to condemn; but it has been the practice from the beginning of the Mint until now. I regret the change but henceforth will simply report fineness, and leave the ingots to be passed or rejected as the Superintendent and the Melter & Refiner may consider their duty.

If any pieces should prove to be out of the way, at the Annual Assay, or Monthly assay, or by any foreign Assay, I am of course not answerable.

MELTING AND REFINING DEPARTMENT.

4th October 1875

Hon. James Pollock

Superintendent.

Sir,

I am indebted to you for reading the letter of the Director on the Silver Melts which were condemned on the 1st Inst. After carefully studying the subject, I wrote you a letter, recommending the passing of those melts, for what seemed to me strong reasons, the strongest of which was, that since the coin made from them would be only 2-1000 below the standard .900, the Govt's desire for rapid manufacture of coin would be best satisfied.

I read that letter to the Assayer, before taking it to you, to ask his opinion. He rather preferred that they should not pass, chiefly because it wd be against the ~~first~~ ^{letter} of the law, allowing $\frac{3}{1000}$ variation from .900. I told him that my experience & Dr Rogers' decided opinion, from his experiments, were that in order to get Coin of .900, the Ingot granulations should have the fineness $.898\frac{3}{4}$; that a reference to our assays of Ingots of last year would show that we tried to keep that average, and that as a consequence our coin at the annual assay was .900. We were led to this conclusion (of the lower fineness of ingots to make coin of 900) by observations of previous years, one of which is in the Report of the Wastage Commission of 1872, where the Silver Coin at the Annual Assay had been 900.8, altho our average Ingot assays of the preceding year had been below .900.

After Dr Rogers' Report on this point, I understood that we were to endeavor to give the Ingot-metal the lower fineness, which we have done & with the results above stated.

I will recal a conversation, on this very point, between the Director, Yourself & myself in your office, where I drew attention to the Q. 7. page 17. of Instructions &c. 1874. in which the legal variation is stated, & the allowance of $\frac{2}{1000}$ below and $\frac{1\frac{1}{2}}{1000}$ above .900 sanctioned. I stated that such ($\frac{3}{1000}$ from .900) was the letter of the law, but not its spirit; that since Dr Rogers' determination of $.898\frac{3}{4}$ as the true standard for Ingots, — we might, by the regulation quoted, pass ingots $.896\frac{3}{4}$ or $.900\frac{1}{4}$, being respectively $\frac{2}{1000}$ below and $\frac{1\frac{1}{2}}{1000}$ above the legal standard in spirit. This was assented to, but both Mr Dubois & myself, are so anxious, to sustain the reputation of the Mint in the world for accuracy, that we have agreed in general to pass Ingots within a $\frac{1}{1000}$ of the proper standard.

I am sorry that Mr Dubois will quote the .900 standard for Ingots, because if we were to follow that standard through the year, our average coin at the Annual Assay would be $901 @ 901\frac{1}{4}$. It is the legal standard, I admit, in letter, but not in spirit. Beside all the assay reports of the last year will show that we considered the legal standard for Ingots considerably below, 900 as we did the last year with excellent result.

I heartily approve of M^r Dubois' desire to maintain our high reputation, & it was only because of ~~the extraordinary descent of melted blip-pings, that I urged the passing of these~~ & the urgency of the Gov^t that I urged the passing of these melts, especially as the coin would be far within

I trust that the Director, (the legal standard) will approve of the course I urged after reading the statement of reasons in my note to you of the 1st Inst. & my remarks in this note. You will please take notice that the worst of the condemned melts will yield coin not less $.898\frac{8}{10}$ or $\frac{15}{1000}$ below the perfect standard.

Respectfully yours

Sir

I have been furnished with a copy of a note addressed to you on the 1st inst. by the Assayer, in which, referring to certain Silver Ingots condemned by him in his report the previous day, and afterwards handed over to be coined, he states that three of the melts gave $896\frac{3}{4}$ thousandths fine.

It appears from Assay Report to you, dated Sept. 30th, that in melt No. 2751, the highest assay was 897, the lowest $896\frac{3}{4}$, and the same in melt No. 2757; the average of each melt being 3.1 thousandths below 900, and the remedy of the Mint being 3 thousandths, these melts were clearly illegal.

I trust that the Assayer is mistaken as to these ingots having been accepted for coinage. Even if the average had been 897, I cannot think that it would be safe to accept it, notwithstanding experience has shown, that as a general thing the coins would be slightly higher.

I think you are incurring great danger in working so close to the limits. By reference to p. 14, Report of Wastage Commission, 1872, you will see the working rule which was recommended and adopted.

When this subject was up last winter, I addressed letters of inquiry to the Superintendents of the Mints at San Francisco and Carson, as to the practice in reporting Silver Ingots.

At San Francisco, Silver ingots are rejected if they differ more than one thousandth from standard, and in Carson none had ever been passed below 898.7 or higher than 900.2.

It will be seen that at these Mints they are able to work even closer than the rule laid down in the Wastage Report referred to above.

I have Your letter of the 2^d inst. in which quoting the following paragraph contained in my letter of the previous day, viz: "That Contingency would not have arisen, had you advised this Office that more Silver bullion was required to carry out its instructions", You observe that "this censure is not deserved", and you refer to what you term "Notice" for more bullion as having been given on the 14th of August, in a dispatch of that date.

By reference to the dispatch from this Office of

The same date, and to which yours was a reply in part, it will be seen that it contained in substance, two different inquiries, the first being how long would the then supply of Silver bullion for subsidiary coinage last, and the second, when would you be prepared for another purchase of unparted bars?

To the first inquiry, no reply was received, and to the second, the answer was, that you would be ready for a new lot of unparted bars, by September 15th.

What you appear to regard as a notice that more bullion was required, was simply answering so much of the Acting Director's inquiry, as referred to time when your Refining would be ready to receive and operate upon another lot of unparted bars.

In order that there may be no misunderstanding on this subject hereafter, you will in future estimate from time to time, the quantity of Silver bullion on hand, and give this Office twenty days notice of additional supplies being required.

It appears to be proper to add that you alone are in a position to determine when more bullion is required, and also the time most convenient for the Mint to receive and store it in the vaults.

Sir

I have received your letter of the 4th inst. in relation to certain silver melts reported by the Assayer, but afterwards received by you for coinage.

Section 33 of the Coinage Act, declares that no silver ingots shall be used for coinage, which differs from the legal standard more than three thousandths.

The melts of ingots referred to having differed more than three thousandths from the legal standard, their receipt was clearly in violation of law. and must, under no circumstances, be repeated.

The general tenor of your letter induces me to add, that so far as my instructions may be referred to in your reference to the urgent demands of the Treasury Department for Subsidiary Silver Coinage, they were intended to have the coinage of the Mint brought up to its full capacity, which from one cause and another, it has been very difficult to do.

In so grave a matter as the passing of ingots in clear violation of law, and against the written protest of the Assayer, I feel bound to say, that I consider the addressing a note by the Assayer direct to this Office, as fully warranted.

In assaying the coins

They will be cut into four equal pieces, and three of the divisions used for the assay, the fourth being reserved for a trial Test, if it should appear necessary.

The fact that as a general rule, silver coins show a somewhat higher fineness than the ingots from which they are made, is well understood by this Office, and it is probable that the coins to be made from ingots of fineness slightly below 897 thousandths, will be somewhat higher and within the legal limits, but segregation to which silver alloys are subject under

OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR OF THE MINT,

October 7, 1875.

Sir,

Your Requisition for funds for the present month and also the Requisition made at your request for $15,000. - for the erection of Annealing Furnaces have been held in the Office of the First Comptroller for the reason that the balance in your hands on the 1st inst ($30,708.¹⁰/₁₀₀) and the amounts requested to be advanced ($45,700. -) were in excess of the amount of your Official Bond. The Comptroller has however at my request approved your Requisitions and a Draft for the amount will probably be mailed you this week.

I have to request that you will deposit the unexpended balance in your hands of the Appropriation for Contingent Expenses for the fiscal year ended June 30. 1875, and render your Supplemental Account.

This will assist in reducing your balance on hand thereby enabling you to obtain funds for current expenses, and at the same time enable the Accounting Officers to close your Ordinary A/c for the past year.

In case any bills incurred during that period are presented they can be forwarded to this Office

Dear Sir

I would most respectfully submit the following report upon the machinery, pipes, and Reservoirs in connection with the Artesian well sunk by Melton & M^c Morris, for this place

The Pumping Engine is substantially built and has a capacity of $1\frac{2}{5}$ gal per stroke which at the lowest speed of $34\frac{5}{10}$ revolutions per minute will lift into the Reservoir in eight hours of constant running 20,037 gals of water, by increasing the speed to 50 revolutions per minute 29,040 gals will be lifted into the reservoir in the same time,

The speed of the engine can be increased to lift in eight hours 48,000 gals, I believe the Capacity of the Engine to be equal to any emergency.

The pipes connecting the Engine with the Reservoir are well and substantially put up, the material and workmanship being good.

The Reservoirs have a capacity of 20,000 gallons, are built of good material and are perfectly tight

The Engine House is also built of good material the workmanship being excellent, and is well adapted for its purpose

The crew has a capacity of from 60 to 100 gallons per minute. Very Respectfully

Sir:

The experience of the last few years has fully demonstrated the practicability and economy of furnishing Stationery to the outside Treasury offices directly from the Treasury Department. Besides securing uniformity in the quality of articles used, and in the style and amount of printing on official paper, Envelopes, &c., a large saving of expense to the Government has uniformly resulted from this mode of supplying these offices, nearly all of which are now supplied in this way: the only important exceptions being those connected with your Bureau.

Believing it desirable, for these reasons that all the offices connected with this Department, should be supplied in this manner, I have directed the Chief of Stationery Printing and Blank Division of this office to be prepared to furnish Stationery to the several mints and assay offices from, and after the 1st. day of January next, and to confer with you in regard to arrangements for carrying this order into effect.

Sir, It is with regret that I learn from your letter to the Suptdt. of the 5th. inst., that you still view the passing of three of the melts of Ingots as a clear violation of law, because one of the granulations in each melt assayed only .896 $\frac{3}{4}$. If I had thought for one moment that the Mint law would be violated, I would have been one of the last to urge passing those ingots. I regarded it as wholly legal, because the lowest assay of coin from them would be .898, while the lowest legal limit is .897 for coin.

A difficulty is suggested by your present decision if I apprehend it aright, which I ask respectfully to submit for your further consideration and decision, for future guidance.

If by Secs 31, 32, 33 (Mint Law) the Standard of Coin is meant, (Sec. 13, M. L.) and we are to aim to make the Drgots of that Standard, then it is certain that our Silver Coin will average .901 or .901 $\frac{1}{4}$. It seems to me that this would be clearly wrong, and a violation of the first principle of Government Mints, which is, to make Coin of the fixed Standard .900. Since the less principle must yield to the greater, it seems clear to me that the Standard in those sections cannot be that of Coin.

Hon. James Pollock

Sir I regret to learn from the Director's letter of the 5th. inst. to you, that he still views the passing of three of the melts of Ingots, by you, as a clear violation of the law, because one of the granulations in each melt assayed only $.896\frac{3}{4}$. If I had thought for one moment that the Mint law would be violated, I would have been one of the last to urge passing those ingots. I regarded it as wholly legal, because the lowest assay of coin from them would be $.898$, while the lowest legal limit is $.897$ for coin.

A difficulty is suggested by the Director's present decision if I apprehend it aright, which I now respectfully submit for his further consideration and decision, for our future guidance.

If in sections 31, 32 and 33 of the Mint Law, the "Standard" of Coin is meant, (as in Section 13,) and we are to make the ingots of that standard, then it is certain that our Silver Coin will average .901 or .901 $\frac{1}{4}$. It seems to me that this would be clearly wrong, and a violation of the first principle of Government Mintage, which is, to make coin of the fixed standard, .900. Since the less principle must yield to the greater, it seems clear to me that the "Standard" in those sections cannot be that of coin.

Hence the regulation recommended by the Commission, (Page 14 of their Report,) that the limits for ingots should be .898 and .900; thereby expressing the opinion that the true standard of ingots is the average, .899. (I do not know why it was further recommended that the second granulation might run to .901, because all our experience shows that the second expresses just

From the time that the Commission reported, I have assumed that the true legal standard for ingots was .899 — or, more exactly, $.898\frac{3}{4}$ — with the legal tolerance of .003 above or below; and from a conversation with the Director, I inferred that such was his view. Our whole subsequent practice has been in conformity with this view of the standard for ingots, and the Annual Assay of the last year proved its correctness. In practice we usually condemn a greater variation than .001 or at furthest .0015 from the ingot-standard .899.

The Director's recent decision seems to point to .900 as the legal standard for Silver ingots, unless I misread it.

May I respectfully ask for his decision whether in Sections 31 to 33 the word "standard" does not refer to .899 for Silver ingots?
Of course my desire and endeavor is to make ingots which will yield Silver coin not varying more than
.001 from .900, and only extreme emergency might induce a greater variation.

In order to ascertain what effect the passing of melts of such low standard would have upon their clippings, the Assayer made the following assays of their average clippings:

First, about 100 oz., melted alone, assayed .898, which would make coin of about .899 $\frac{1}{4}$, and which proved that the coin cut from those clippings must have been nearly or quite .900.

Second, another 100 oz.
 was melted, with the same proportion of fine silver added as we had done in our large operations.
 It assayed .898 $\frac{1}{4}$, which would make coin of .899 $\frac{1}{2}$, and proved that the coin which had been cut from the strips producing these clippings must have been fully .900.

The question of the increase in fineness of silver ingots while being made into coin, was investigated with considerable thoroughness by the Huxley Commission who found that it might be extended almost indefinitely, so as almost to make pure silver. It escaped me, and it would seem all others, in looking into the details of the Mint Law when projected, that there is no provision for ^{deviation in} the fineness of the coin, but only for that of the ingots from which the coin is to be made. I myself was certainly blamable in this, because I was aware of the fact of increase in fineness, — although not of the measure of that increase, until the experiments of the Hartage Commission determined it. He can, it is true, use the law as it is in connection with regulations.

I merely suggest the above point as worthy of consideration, if at any time a revision should be called for.

I would respectfully solicit you to lay

To Mr Cobb for Suptdt.

Sir,

The following are the amounts of Silver Ingots delivered to the Suptdt. for the Coiner, during the month of October. See 2nd Page

It will be observed that since the 12th, when I first heard of the Requisition of the Director, we have run on the 3 denominations with considerable uniformity in the number of ounces, because ^{part of} the halves delivered up to the 15th, and the quarters up to the 14th, Inclusive, were made before the 13th. You will please observe that the deliveries, since my orders to attain the equal proportion asked for, have been as follows.

Half Dollars	Quarter Dollars	Dollars for Dimes
262,804.10	235,706.10	216,403.50

You will observe also by the dates that we are now engaged in bringing up the complement of Dollars.

Sir

Please find enclosed the Reports of Gold and Silver Melting for the month of October.

The wastage in Gold, $\frac{5}{100}$ of $\frac{1}{1000}$, is manifestly below what it should be. That of Silver, .001-64, is beyond what it should be; but the general grain of which there were more than usual, reduce this ratio to .001-12, or $\frac{1\frac{1}{8}}{1000}$, which is about the usual amount.

The number of Silver melts condemned (8) is only 2% of the whole number made; the 4 gold melts condemned make 8%. This large proportion is due to our melting in the Deposit Room, at a time when we were excessively pressed in business and the melts were imperfectly mixed.

Respectfully Yours

Dear Sir.

Your favor of 2nd ult. - is at hand, and would, long ago, have received attention had not - my continued absence prevented an earlier reply.

I regret that - you should think I desired to "complain" of anything with regard to the transaction between us - You had already been too kind for me to do so. I merely did not understand, and said so. That is all -

I have to thank you, not only for your kindness in sending the plan-chets, but also for the very comprehensive and lucid explanation in the letter now before me.

I regret that - you should have felt hurt at my remarks, which were intended to create no such impression.

With reference to the expenses you have mentioned, and for which you tell me you have received nothing, I shall be happy to make good the deficiency, if you will be kind enough

Will you please to inform me whether or not The United States Government, ^{ever} coined, on their own account, for the purposes of the currency of the country, and did actually pay out as such, a gold fifty-cent-piece? my recollection is, that if such a piece was ever coined by the Gov. it was coined for private parties and not for the purposes of furnishing a currency on the part of the Government. Two of my friends have bet, one lemon, and the case has been left for my decision, I think the friend who bet a lemon, that the coinage was for private enterprise, has won, still I cannot give any decision until I learn the facts in relation to the case.

Sir;

Yours of yesterday, stating your requirements for Silver Bullion, has been received.

Steps will be taken to procure additional supplies without delay. The New York Assay Office is behind in its refining of Government Bullion on account of extensive repairs having been found necessary.

In estimating your probable future requirements, you evidently refer to the Minter and Refiners' Department, as the Coiner could not operate at that rate, making the three denominations denominations of silver. (half dalls. Quarter dalls and Dimes), in equal proportions as to value, and according to last instructions.

Assuming that you can coin at the rate of 2,500,000 pieces subsidiary silver ^{per month}, there would be $156,200 nominal value in each of the coins named. and which would require about 375,000 oz standard silver per month.

I cannot tell how soon we will be able to furnish more Doré silver. as the Treasury supply of ^{good} coin at San Francisco is quite small.

The subject will be further considered in a few days.

I am Sir, very respectfully

After considering the question of deviations from Standard in the fineness of Silver Ingots, I have come to the conclusion that we can, and that we ought, to limit them to 898 and 900.5, for both granulations.

Dear Sir:

In regard to the letter of the Director, of the 20th inst., I am quite sure, from the way we are working, day after day, it is not necessary to fall below 898 in the Silver ingots. Out of 200 melts (400 Assays) not one has fallen below that fineness.

I have no doubt the Melter & Refiner will agree with me, that 898 to 900½ affords a safe and sufficient working-room; and that those limits may equally apply to the first and second granulations. The Dipping-out is so well managed, that there is practically no improvement, and no distinction.

Very Respectfully

Sir

I have received your letter of yesterday, and carefully examined the Communication of the Melter and Refiner therein enclosed.

Whatever experience may have shown to be the proper working standard for Silver Ingots, it is very clear that the law prohibits the use of any ingots for Coinage, which vary more than 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ from 900 $\frac{1}{2}$.

The practical question presented by the Melter and Refiner is, as to what shall be the proper working limits for Silver Ingots, within the legal tolerance. I am quite ~~willing~~ ^{sure} that the rule laid down on p. 14, Report of Wastage Commission, 1872, may be safely employed, and in this opinion I believe you all concur.

If after due consideration, yourself, the Melter and Refiner and the Assayer should be of the opinion that the First Granulation must not be below 897.5 M nor above 900, and the Second not above 900.5 M , I can see no objection to its adoption as a working rule, inasmuch as it would, according to the actual experience of the last two or three years, bring the coin out 900 M or nearly so.

CROSS LONDON ENGLAND

B. F. STEVENS,

AMERICAN LIBRARY & LITERARY AGENT,
[REMOVED FROM 17, HENRIETTA STREET, COVENT GARDEN.]
4, TRAFALGAR SQUARE, CHARING CROSS,
LONDON, ENGLAND.

PECIAL attention is called to the ease with which private individuals, as well as libraries, societies, clubs, etc., can subscribe in America for English or Continental journals,—literary, scientific, religious, legal, medical, political,—including reports, transactions of societies, etc.

All the facilities and economies heretofore employed by Departments of Government and Public Libraries in obtaining books, tasteful and substantial bookbinding, apparatus, maps, stationery, etc., are now proffered to every correspondent.

Under the new postal arrangements and the great reduction in postage, English and Continental newspapers and periodicals are mailed to subscribers in the United States on the days of issue at the price of publication and postage. Subscriptions payable in advance may commence at any time and be taken for any period. Sample copies will be supplied upon application with remittance.

The postage from London to any part of the United States on registered newspapers is one penny each, and if above four ounces is twopence. On newspapers eight days old, and on books, and magazines, English and Continental, singly or in packages, the postage is one penny for every two ounces, or fraction of two ounces, up to two pounds weight. New English books are supplied at trade prices, usually 25 per cent. off publication price, and Continental and second-hand books on the most favourable terms, adding 10 per cent. commission. The allowance on new English books approximately equals postage and commission.

Orders are also executed for Philosophical Apparatus and Scientific Instruments, including chemical, medical, optical, surgical, etc., and for the miscellaneous wants of institutions and individuals. Catalogues, English and Continental, are forwarded upon application. Packages by steamer are consigned to Messrs. Tice and Lynch, Brokers and Forwarding Merchants, 34½, Pine Street, New York, or to other brokers at New York or elsewhere as purchasers may desire.

Remittances may be made to B. F. Stevens, 4, Trafalgar Square, Charing Cross, London, England, by Bankers' drafts, or Post Office orders on London; or in greenbacks and fractional currency in accordance with this table. Postage stamps may be used in making up odd amounts. Letters covering these remittances should be registered.

Correspondents when paying exact amounts of Sterling may take the rate of gold on the day of remitting, while round sums in currency for credit in account against general orders will be reckoned at the rate of gold on the day of receipt.

This being a strictly ready-money commission business, it is necessary that orders should be accompanied by funds, and that current accounts should be kept well covered.

 * Copies of this List may be had free on application to Messrs. Tice and Lynch, 34½, Pine Street, the New York Agents of B. F. Stevens.*

Treasury Department,

OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR OF THE MINT,

October 23, 1875.

Sir:

The Treasurer of the U.S. conferred with me recently as to the disposition of certain gold coin in the Treasury at New Orleans and which although more or less reduced in weight are within the least current weight.

I advised that the coins should be sent to your Mint, and each piece separately weighed by the adjusters and divided into two lots as follows: All pieces found to weigh a quarter of a grain or more above the least current weight to be placed in one parcel, and all of less weight in another. I further advised that after weighing the coins in the first parcel be transferred to the Treasury at New York, and there mixed with new coin, and paid out in the ordinary coin disbursements of the Treasury, and the second lot to be recoined upon an order of the Secretary of the Treasury

To-day I am informed by the Treasurer that $400,000 in gold coin "principally abraded" has been ordered to your Mint from the Assistant Treasury at New Orleans, and may soon be expected to arrive in Philadelphia. When this coin has been weighed and assayed as above indicated you will advise this office, when further instructions will be given.

Very respectfully
